The Photogravure Stamps of Egypt Deserve Close Application

One must dip into the complexities of modern photo-engraving if he would appreciate the Egyptian photogravure stamps of 1923 and the other similarly produced issues of later years. While the Standard Catalogue simply lists the Fuad stamps in two varieties, size and perforation, the specialist has found at least three distinct plates through his study of the "screen" of the design.

A copy of this evening's newspaper carries numerous pictures produced from etchings known as "half tones." A comparison of one of these pictures and one of the Egyptian stamps mentioned above will reveal that both have been produced in the same manner, that is, the picture is formed of dots, the intensity of which forms light and shadow. This degree of intensity of the dots is referred to as a "screen" and it may range from as few as 50 lines of dots to the inch to as many as 175 and the size and shape of these dots may vary considerably.

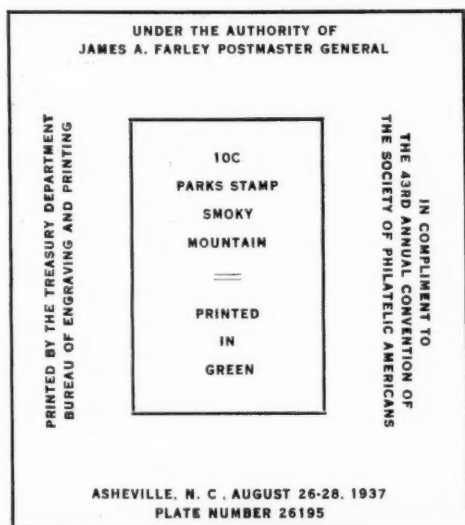

In a line engraving, such as many of the illustrations you may see in newspaper advertisements or upon the comic strip page, all parts of the design are reproduced with equal intensity but in a half tone, as its name implies, the engraver is able to reduce the sharpness of the detail of the plate so that the printer, working with but one color, is able to offer a blending effect.

In the case of the Egyptian stamps the half tones were etched into a copper cylinder and those produced in 1923 have been identified as being printed from a "spattered" screen in which the dots can hardly be aligned and their size varies considerably. A diagonal screen, with a more uniform arrangement of the dots, appeared in 1926 and a vertical screen has been traced to the same period.

Because of the delicacy of the photogravure process of producing stamps flaws often appear and these must be eliminated by retouching. Such stamps hold a deep interest for the collector of an inquiring mind for he hunts out these "repairs." Retouches are numerous on the Egyptian issues.

Coronation Printings

The Philatelic Magazine (London) states:

The trade have now received second deliveries of the Coronations for the crown colonies and will probably receive a third, if they require it, but it must be borne in mind that reprinting is not likely to be continuous, inasmuch as all the colonies are anxious to get out their permanent sets with the portrait of the new king. The Coronations are a "stop gap". We have had so many inquiries as to what is the exact face value of the crown colony Coronation stamps that it may save trouble to record here that the face value of the 135 stamps, worked out to two places of decimals, is 20 shillings, 8.59 pence.

Australasian Notes

BY S. Zelenko

NEW ZEALAND.

The Coronation stamps were placed on sale at all post offices throughout the dominion on May 13. Plates used in printing show the following plate numbers: 1d.-1L; 1T; 4L and 4T., 2 1/2d.-2L and 2T. 6d.-3L. and 3T. These identification marks may be found in the left-hand vertical selvage opposite the fourth row of stamps. The imprint which reads: "Bradbury, Wilkinson and Co., Ltd., New Malden, Surrey, England." appears in the center of the bottom selvage.

The 2 shilling denomination of the current pictorial series, was issued in May with the overprint "Official".

NIUE.

The date of issue of the Coronation stamps coincided with that of New Zealand. Stamps printed from plates 1L, for the 1d., 2L for the 2 1/2d. and 3L for the 6d. were overprinted in black with the word "NIUE". The overprint is situated in the center of the stamp, but slight variations in the position of "NIUE" have been noted. Whether these will be of any philatelic significance remains to be seen.

I am indebted to two of my readers for sending me "first flight" covers via the San Francisco-Hong Kong route. These bear the date stamp of Hong Kong: "2.30/ 28 Ap/ 37/". The covers reached Melbourne five days later, and are backstamped accordingly. Thus the whole trip is accomplished now in fourteen days. The extremely high postal rates will, however, prevent this extremely useful service being used by a larger number of people. Let us hope that with the progress of aviation the charges will experience a retrograde move.

By BELA SINGER, Budapest, Hungary

The Hungarian International Fair stamps, recently issued to draw attention to the world market held annually in Budapest, probably will appear each year in the future. The present issue will be available for postage until Dec. 31.

In Czechoslovakia there are at this time no less than eighty-one different postage stamps that may be used to frank mail. This situation has resulted in a great loss of time in the post offices as the clerks examine letters and packages to determine if the stamps are still valid. It has already been decided that forty-five varieties of stamps will be withdrawn from sale, and in the future not more than thirty different stamps will be recognized by the postoffice department.

Forgeries of the Roumanian (Moldavia) 80 parale red, 1858 issue, are moving in the stamp market. The forgeries are sometimes offered on cover.

The Mother's day stamps of Czechoslovakia will be in use until the end of November. The printing is reported to be: 50 50h—1,600,000; 1kr 50h—1,200,000; 2kr. 1kr—600,000.

A French stamp dealer visiting Bordeaux was astonished at the cleanliness of the city and asked an explanation of a resident.

"The streets of the city are washed daily," replied the man. "You will learn the reason before the end of the day."

Three times before nightfall the visiting merchant saw the streets washed—with rain. After each shower the wind and sun dried the city. Bordeaux, besides having the greatest annual rainfall of any French city, has been a leader in the wine export business for ninety years to the island of Mauritius. The rain and the wine export business are linked with stamps in this way.

Most of the good Mauritius stamps on cover originally came to the wine merchants of Bordeaux from Frenchmen who had emigrated to Mauritius. Finds of these covers are still being made in the city.

The dealer I mentioned above said that during his visit to the town he saw a man with a handful of Post Office Mauritius covers—but in what condition! The covers were found in a cellar and eighty years of rain had all but ruined the treasure. Even so, the stamps brought 22,000 francs.

Your Washington Correspondent

BY CHARLES A. KENNY
The Washington Times Stamp Editor

It was learned from authentic sources today (July 6) that the Northwest Territory commission would have its request fulfilled with the granting of another commemorative stamp to be issued next summer. E. M. Hawes, executive director of the commission, in a letter to Your Washington Correspondent, dated July 1, called attention to the references made to the Northwest Territory stamp in the June 26 issue, and pointed out several items concerning the stamp for which we are grateful.

As the information relative to the Northwest Territory stamp in this column was in the nature of a "scoop," as far as the philatelic press of the United States is concerned, several details relative to the exactness of the stamp were slightly in error.

One of these was the information imparted by Your Washington Correspondent that the statues being carved by Gutzon Borglum would be depicted on the stamp.

Well, it just so happened that we had "the cart before the horse" as the saying goes, as the statue, or rather memorial of historical symbolism which this eminent artist is now fashioning, WILL BE USED AS THE PREDOMINATING ILLUSTRATION ON THE SECOND COMMEMORATIVE ADHESIVE ISSUED FOR THE ACTUAL ESTABLISHMENT OF THE TERRITORY, and the stamp will be placed on first day sale at Marietta, July 15, 1938. That's a date to be remembered.

On Thursday, July 1, the fourth edition or 1937 issue of the Federal Migratory Bird Hunting, or "duck" stamps, went on sale at United States post offices throughout the country. Preliminary announcement of this stamp was made in this column several months ago.

The stamp is required of every person of sixteen years of age or more who is engaged in the hunting of waterfowl. The stamps sell for $1 each.

The proceeds of not less than 90 per cent of the sales of this stamp are turned over to the biological survey of the department of agriculture for establishing, maintaining, and administering migratory bird refuges.

The stamp for 1937 depicts five scapulae of broadbills, settling down on Atlantic Coast feeding grounds. The design was developed by J. D. Knapp, New York City sportsman and artist. The plate number of the stamp is 136,267.

It has been announced that approximately $600,000 worth of the "duck stamps" were sold last year at the post offices throughout the country.

According to an announcement by post office officials, a total of $1,949,019 in stamps was sold by the Philatelic Agency for the fiscal year, ending June 30. Sales for year previous amounted to $1,846,253 for an increase of $98,766. The past year marked the largest return in the history of the agency with the exception of 1935 when the famous Farley imperforates were offered for sale.

P. S. Chamberlain, redemption section chief of the post office department was in charge of first day sales of the Northwest Territory stamp at Marietta, Ohio, July 13.

Correction

Scarcely did our last edition reach subscribers before the editor was advised to buy an atlas. He stated in an editorial that Costa Rica was "south" of the canal. Even though he didn't identify the canal he breaks down and admits that he meant the Panama Canal. We hasten to put Costa Rica in its proper place "north" of the canal lest some of our readers suspect their geography teachers knew less than Linn's editor.

A catalogue of the retail tobacco stamps of Canada has been submitted to us by the editor, R. A. Bond, Almonte, Ontario. It is an illustrated, comprehensive listing of these issues and may be obtained for 50 cents.

It is announced by the publishers of the Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue that the price of the 1938 edition will be advanced to $3.

New Die Discovered

Thirty-four years ago the Post Office Department produced a new type 2-cent stamp and it became so common that millions of copies still move around in stamp trading circles. One might conclude that all the varieties in the printing of this stamp have long since been discovered by the specialists. However, the June issue of the Bureau Specialist brings us something new about this item which, apparently, has escaped notice for many years. Die II has been isolated and the printing plates identified. The stamp is our old friend Scott No. 319, Washington's portrait on a shield background.

But let Norbert J. Eich tell of this new variety:

"While studying this stamp for plate varieties, a constant difference was noticed to exist between the early and late printings of the stamp. It was pronounced enough to make it discernable. A careful check on data obtainable yielded interesting results.

"All of the early plates were rolled in from transfer rolls made from the original die cut for the shield design. A roll from this die was used to make another die. The second die was retouched and new transfer rolls were made which, in turn, were used to lay down the later plates. This retouching results in a type variety which we call Die II.

"The proofs from the second die show a pronounced strengthening of the inner frame line in the curve in the lower left corner from the top of the T around the curve. In addition the background lines above the left tip of the T and below the ribbon have been strengthened. The strengthening of the background lines is not as discernible on the stamps as is the heaviness of the frame line.

"The new transfer rolls were first used on plate No. 4339 and thereafter on all 400 subject plates with but few exceptions. The plate number check list on the two dies is as follows:

4338 Die I 4342 Die I 4344 Die II
4339 Die II 4343 Die II 4345 Die I
4346 Die II

"All succeeding 400 subject plates come from Die II. All the 170 subject booklet plates are believed to have been laid down from the Die I rolls, although a complete check of all the booklet plates has not been made."

In almost all instances used King George V Jubilees are bringing a better price on the foreign market than the mint copies.

Editor's Comment

TROUBLE WITH Many collectors CORONATION SETS have declared open season on dealers who have been unable to fill Coronation orders at advertised prices. The situation has been developing to a critical stage for some weeks and the bubble has now burst with the official word that the market was caught short on Southern Rhodesia. The fading hopes of many American dealers that the orders they sent to the African dominion would yet turn up seem to have "gone with the wind" and there is nothing to do but go into the open market and pick up such Southern Rhodesia sets, at high prices, as may be available if they are to complete their stocks of Coronation sets.

Now as to this unpleasant situation which finds some dealers and some collectors glaring at each other from opposites of this magazine. We think there is room for criticism on both sides with the collector more at fault than the dealer. It was known a long time ago that the Coronation sets would be issued and this magazine warned its readers that to delay placing their orders with responsible dealers could only result in their being compelled to pay a high price for some of the short issues. Some collectors apparently did not take us seriously and have complained that money sent to long established dealers has been returned despite the fact these dealers permitted their "cut rate" price on Coronations to run too long.

At no time have we condoned the price cutting that featured the advance advertising on Coronations. Dealers were afraid of each other. Someone with more money than wisdom cut the price to within a few cents of cost and others foolishly did likewise. Each was fearful to increase prices even when the clouds began to gather on the horizon. The result? So far as we know all advance orders were filled but when additional supplies from the dominions failed to arrive, some dealers were helpless. They had every right to expect that their orders would be filled and that they could deliver at advertised prices. We know of one instance in which a stamp dealer placed orders for dominion Coronations with three sources and it never entered his head that there would be difficulty. Yet this man has not yet received any dominion stamps. He sent his money overseas to responsible agents and felt he was secure. Now, shall the collector who ordered late expect that dealer, or any other who has been caught short, to fill a Coronation order at the silly prices that have featured this whole business?

One other bit of information should be considered by disgruntled collectors. Dealers place advertising in this and other stamp magazines from two to three weeks in advance of publication. Once the production of an issue of the magazine begins there is no way the dealer can cancel or change his advertising because it is a costly business to interrupt the routine of a publishing house. This means that even though a dealer learns a week or so before his advertising appears that the world stamp market has undergone a radical change, there is nothing he can do to ward off orders if he has offered to sell affected items at a cost below the newly developed market.

Linn's Central Europe correspondent wrote me recently that he had learned of a most unusual collection of Hungarian stamps, composed entirely of that very common design in which peasants are seen laboring in a field of grain (Scott A8, 9 and 13). The collection is owned by an Austrian and embraces no fewer than 1,221 varieties of this one design. Our correspondent adds that he believes it possible to build a Hungarian collection containing 50,000 varieties.

The new Japanese commemorative stamp, honoring General Nogi, receives scant praise in the current issue of Kitte Shumi, a Japanese philatelic magazine. It is felt that the design too closely resembles German and Norwegian work.

DEE'S STAMP HOUSE

P. O. Box 567 Tulsa, Oklahoma

Plenty of Edwards

According to The Philatelic Trader (London) the Edward VIII issue is not a good field for speculation as the English market is overloaded with the stamps.

It prints extracts of news items in several English newspapers bearing on the subject:

Reynold's News (June 6)—The postmaster-general seems anxious to efface all memory of ex-King Edward VIII from the public mind. No more stamps bearing his portrait will be issued to post offices by the stores department. Surplus stocks of King Edward VIII stamps still held by the stores department will be burned.

Daily Mirror (June 7)—The suggestion that the postmaster general is trying to fade out the Duke of Windsor by destroying stamps is foolish. The issue soon will be exhausted and it is not intended to print another." This from the post office public relations officer.

Yorkshire Post (June 7)—"When the issue of the Coronation stamps ends next month," said the post office public relations officer, "a new George VI stamp of the same value will be introduced and if sheets of King Edward VIII three-half-penny stamps remain unsold at that date it is proposed that they will be destroyed because the supply of all the other Edward stamps will then be exhausted."

Henrich von Stephan, founder of the Universal Postal Union, suggested the use of post cards but the idea was not accepted until years later.

Mrs. J. S. Elliott of Clinton, N. Y., sends us five new subscriptions—the result of loaning her copy of Linn's Weekly Stamp News to other collectors in Clinton—and expresses her pleasure with the Coronation album.

Bingo With a Bang!

These collectors of precanceled postage stamps are entitled to the admiration of all other collectors. As a group they constantly are doing something in a way that catches attention and interest. Stephen G. Rich writes of a new trick advanced by the North Jersey Precancel Club which is getting the group quite a bit of publicity around the country.

Each member was asked to bring in a sealed envelope Bureau Prints cataloging not less than $1. The envelope with the stamps in it was the ticket of admission to the meeting.

The dozen or more who came in on the project had lots of fun not only with the bingo but with opening the blind packages to see what they won. By general agreement those who won more than a single piece turned the second winning back into the pot so that in all more than twenty rounds could be played.

At the end everybody who was still there threw his winnings back into a single large pot which was taken by the last winner of the evening. The lucky man was Dick Coda of Newark.

For a warm evening when even the traders grow slack, the bingo party certainly showed its value for a stamp club on this occasion.

1c coil B-13, Los Angeles, Calif.

—Alex J. La Roche.

I understand Salt Lake City is to use B-13 on its coils, also.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

Slowly but surely signs are appearing and pointing to the passing of our beloved precancels. I am no wolf crier, but it would be downright foolishness to leave these things go by unnoticed without at least a casual comment. The ever increasing use of meters, paid permits and the like, the smudging of precancelled stamps and the many restrictions and rulings of late can be nothing else than the beginning of the end. It may take ten years or more, maybe not that long, one can hardly guess what the powers that be will do next and when. I would not be surprised if only the lower values were all that the department would allow to be precancelled even within the next few years. Personally I think it is only a matter of time until the cost of these meter machines is lowered and they will replace the need for parcel post values. As it stands now the company that uses one of these machines must pay for it. If the government should decide to bear all or part of the burden of these machines it would mean good-bye stamps. There are quite a number of other phases to this question and I would like to hear some comment from readers.

NOTES

From Eddie Christ of St. Louis come four values of Gonzales, Tex., in the 1923 perf. 10 issue U-51 type. The 4c, 6c, 8c and 10c. Only the 4c is listed and it catalogues $2.—Here is one for the technicians. Was handed a strip of Columbus B-121s with quite a break on Mr. Franklin's forehead, you don't need a glass to see it, neither will you have to strain your eyes. Quite a break and occurs the first stamp right of the guide line.—Middletown, Del., along with the old Battle Creek type, the Corning, N. Y., triple line and the New Orleans double line types will not be included in the forthcoming double line catalogue unless a last minute change of policy is inaugurated by the publishers.

Notes Off the Cuff

Every effort will be made by the St. Petersburg (Fla.) Stamp Club to obtain the 1938 convention of the American Philatelic Society for the resort city. York Briddell, president of the club, will make the bid at the August gathering in Detroit.

Great Britain has established a 1½d airmail service throughout the empire. The venture is expected to cost the government $1,000,000 each year above the income but an effort will be made to transport virtually all first class mail by air.

Joseph P. Furey has been reappointed editor of the Metco Messenger, the newsy semi-monthly publication of the stamp collecting employees of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Incidentally, Mr. Furey was married to Miss Lorraine Bartholme on June 19.

A recent editorial statement in this magazine that certain large business houses possess sheets of canceled commemorative stamps moves the stamp editor of the Philadelphia Record to suggest that government agents make an investigation of conditions that permit such accumulations.

According to the Washington Star, a multigraphed list of stamps issued since March 4, 1933, with the names of designers and engravers, date of issue and number of first day covers, may be obtained free from Harold F. Ambrose, chief of the information service of the post office department at Washington.

Garfield-Perry Stamp Club, Cleveland, Ohio, will hold its meetings in future at the Allerton Hotel. The society outgrew its old quarters.

Broadway Chatter

By Bi Stander

Dealers report excellent business in Coronation stamps despite warm weather that may have distracted the attention of some collectors. We look to a buying wave in the fall with the crest of trading in Coronations after next Jan. 1 when they become obsolete. That was the trend with the Jubilees.

Information has been received here that the United States Postal Agency at Barranquilla, Colombia, was to have been discontinued on July 15.

The Pexip philatelic exhibition sheets have reached New York. This item was issued in honor of the Paris Philatelic Exhibition and, to our way of thinking, the price already has exceeded the level we did not expect to see for another year. Philatelic sheets seem to be as popular here as ever and with few exceptions all have increased in price.

More information on several dominion Coronation sets has come through. First day in New Zealand was May 13 and the stamps were printed by Bradbury Wilkinson in sheets of 120. Sets for Papua, New Guinea and Nauru were produced by the note printing branch of the Commonwealth Bank of Australia. First day at Papua was May 14. Collectors and dealers will be disappointed to hear that no covers were handled by the office there.

New Guinea stamps were printed in sheets of thirty. Cook and Niue were issued June 1 and first shipments have just reached New York.

The New York Sun reports the Spanish Zaragoza airmails imperforate and overprinted on two values "Viva la Virgen de Pilar / 3 de Agosto / de 1936 / Viva Espana." The values are 5 and 10c. Reason for the set was the escape from damage of the Cathedral of Zaragoza during the air raid by planes of the Valencia government.

A recommended bit of fiction is "Anselm Gets His Chance" by P. G. Wodehouse in the July 3 issue of The Saturday Evening Post. A stamp collection figures in the plot.

First day cover collectors are waiting in pleasant anticipation of the beginning of regular trans-Atlantic air service. A distinctive stamp would be in order.

No African Errors

Writing about the Union of South Africa Coronation stamps in the June issue of The South African Philatelist, Dr. Alec Kaplan states that minor plate flaws are common and as the watermark runs sideways there are certain to be some stamps showing the watermark in reverse.

"As has been stated there are no errors," he continues, "but there are a few important varieties. The most important occurs on the 1/- value. On the thirteenth stamp of the second row a constant smudge appears on the KA of AFRIKA and above it, thus obliterating the hyphen of SUID-AFRIKA. A so-called error has been given prominence in the lay press, that in some of the 1/2 and 1d values the word "inkomste" has been incorrectly spelled with an x instead of a k. This variety occurs in the bottom row of the 1/2d and in the second row of the 1d value, and is merely caused by the letter k being slightly defective and not well inked."

Airpost Covers

C. A. HUNTER, SYRACUSE, NEBR.

"El Correo Aereo en Cuba" is the title of a catalogue put out by Rafael R. Garcia of Havana, Cuba. While the book is printed in Spanish it is priced in U. S. dollars and lists all first flights, national and international, historical flights, and first day of issues and commemorative flights. Prices compare favorably with the values given in the latest Standard Airpost Catalogue. Our thanks to Mr. Garcia.

We must call attention to the fact that it takes two weeks after articles reach our hands for them to get into print and it should require a week after that at the minimum for collectors to obtain covers.

Covers sent to the postmaster at Hartford, Conn., Chamber of Commerce, or Buell A. French, Hartford, Conn., by July 20, will receive the cachet for the tenth anniversary of Lindbergh's Good Will Flight to that city—the cachet is a replica of the original cachet, dates changed and wording added.

Rex Copp says Erie, Pa., is expected to be completed this summer and covers to C. of C. Reading, Pa., C. of C. says covers turned over to local stamp club and cachet planned but no date set; Towanda, Pa., work in progress on state construction airport but will be completed by fall. C. of C. will hold covers but no date set.

W. S. Branch, Jr., sends a description of the cachet to be used for the embracing of Orlando, Fla., on or about July 15 on AM 6. Orlando has had airmail service but the switch to another route gives it faster service to New York City. Cachet measures 2 1/4 inches by 2 1/2 inches and will be applied in orange ink by the P. O. D.

It may be that the first flight may not have occurred on the date given but those who are on the P. O. D. mailing list will have received notice of this and will have their covers ready.

That is all for this week. Thanks a lot to our contributors.

Hindenburg Mail

The director of International Postal Service, John E. Lamiell, reports that 329 pieces of mail have now been found among the wreckage of the Hindenburg and these have been delivered by the postmaster of New York City. The last report was that 249 pieces of mail had been salvaged. Many fraud "crash" covers have been reported.—Washington Post.

Naval Cancels — Cachets

By MARSHALL B. HALL,
ANCS 10

1767 Bedford Road, Columbus, Ohio

Cachets to commemorate the launching of the McCall and the keel laying of the Swordfish will be sponsored by J. P. Clark, 1480 171st avenue, San Leandro, Calif., and covers should go early as these are printed jobs. Include forwarding.

Ted Harrington, 3162 South Hanson avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., is planning a brand new series of fine photographic naval covers, all commemorative as to subject, all printed, and they should go to Ted with a strong filler enclosed. It is suggested you send him twenty covers and forwarding, at once, because he plans to use ten covers on the Manley alone, which, as previously stated here, is going to Spanish waters shortly as part of the squadron which will relieve our ships now on duty there.

N. Gentile, who has been mail clerk on the Manley, is no longer there, he having been transferred to the Cuyagoga, which is stationed at Washington, D. C.

F. L. Beach, who did such fine service for collectors on the Zane, has also been transferred and is now on the Preble, operating out of Pearl Harbor, T. H.

Raymond Sperry, USS Sirius, via New York postoffice, wonders if collectors are forgetting his ship, and reminds that some nice coastwise trips are frequent with resulting fine cancels. He collects, so remember him when sending covers.

O. A. Farrabee, Box 20, Submarine Base, New London, Conn., has a lot of collectors' covers on hand which were returned to him from ships, with fine cancels, etc. He requests that any and all who sent him covers and have not received them back as yet, now send him a large stamped and addressed envelope, so he may return under cover your covers he now holds.

A collection of United States stamps, valued at $2,000, was stolen recently from J. K. Waitt, Norfolk, Va. The stamps were housed in two DeLux and Philoline albums for commemoratives which issues were virtually complete in singles and blocks of four since 1910. The collection is very strong in revenues and included a Petersburg, Va., Confederate local having wide margin at top and right and canceled "Petersburg" in blue.

FIVE MILLION CORONATIONS

Yes, even more than five million. The Kenmore Stamp Company, largest importers of British Colonial Stamps in America announce that they have just completed tearing up sheets of Coronation stamps which totaled 5,400,000 stamps. Some Job. And the Kenmore Stamp Company also make further announcement of which they may well be proud, that they have been able to fill every order for these stamps which was placed with them in advance as per their requirements. This is due solely to the fact that Mr. Jarvis is an experienced stamp man, knows the "ropes" in buying British Colonials and laid the cash on the line for his advance orders.

Customers of the Kenmore Company who had their orders in time may feel pleased to know these things and it is only because their orders were placed well in advance that such a thing has been possible and it is believed that in some instances there will be a shortage of some of the issues.

This is of course a situation which could not be foreseen, yet the early bird always gets the worm and experience counts for a whole lot in this game of dealing in stamps.

Business at our plant has been excellent the past month or more. Every indication points to a continued good business through the rest of the summer and with the things that are in the offing we look for a Boom Fall and Winter Business.

CORONATION DAZE

That is what some dealers say about the Coronation issues. We even have letters from dealers who say "Never Again." They want no more of the trouble and grief that goes with such a stamp issue and sale. For months past we have advised collectors to buy at once and be sure to place orders in advance as prices would raise and now the dealers who are advertising the stamps are advancing prices each week. It is predicted the sets will go to $20 soon. This is all because of some few shortages to make complete sets. The bulk of the issues will be plentiful for some time to come.

On behalf of the dealers, however, we do want to say that they are not wholly at fault for inability to fill orders. Collectors should take this into consideration and attempt to make the best of every situation.
